Home emergencies may be more common than you realise – would you be prepared?

New research by NFU Mutual has revealed the scale and variety of nightmare emergencies which home owners can be forced to deal with. The research shows that broken boilers, plumbing problems and power supply failures are among people's biggest fears, while there can be steep costs facing those who don't have home emergency cover.

Would you have to pay over £500?

For those who paid for repairs themselves, 21% of those surveyed paid over £1,000 for heating system failures. Others paid over £500 due to:

1 in 5 people have experienced an emergency involving their heating system in the past two years

42% of those surveyed paid to have their heating system fixed out of their own pocket

35% were able to claim on their insurance
